Before the feast ended Worshipful Master Darby proposed ored coachman named Benjamin F. Hunter, about whom the New York police had been asked to make inquiries. The police here do not know Hunter, except what they learned of him through his own writings. They are certain that he is a religious crank, and their opinion of the coachman is based on a letter he directed to the judges of the Supreme Court. This letter was written on tablet paper, bearing printed religious matter and a red stamp, giving notice that "the days of grace have " and saying "depart from me, for

A friend called to see me, and rought about one-half teaspoonful of CUTICURA, advising me to try it, telling of himself, brothers and mother having been cured by it. I would not try it at first, although I had been on crutches for over two weeks, and at one time I counted between wenty-five and thirty suppurating sores, and ha not slept more than five hours in three nights. Monday morning about 4 o'clock the pain, burning and itching became so severe that I determined to try CUTICURA, thinking that if it did no good, it could not make my leg much worse, for it was as raw as a piece of beef and as red as a beet, so I applied the CUTICURA, and in five minutes after I lay down I was asleep. Next day I sent and go a box of CUTICURA, and I'll pledge my bones word I would not take $100 today for it, if I could not get another. This fine hall is 200 feet in length and about 75 feet in width, with ample light and ventilation, and continually kept comfortably warm by overhead steam pipes, and with very little expense the erection of a stage on the east side; seating capacity can easily be arranged for from two to three thousand persons, to and from which rapid irgress and egress is had by two elevators, and the southwest 10-ft, wide iron stairway, also cut of the northeast front corner over the wide fron veranda, extending along the avenue front above the wholesale stores, known as the "Arcade Build ing," to the center of this wide iron veranda, and thence by the bridge and stairway through the center of Market Park to Pennsylvania avenue. The central location of THIS NINTH STREET MARKET HALL, where all the lines of steam, elec tric, cable, horse cars and herdics center, from every section of the city, renders its uses more valuable than most any of the other large halls

Applications will be received for leasing it in its

Which have been recently used AS PRIVATE OF-OF THE DISTRICT MILITIA, embracing about 50 large rooms, with a wide hallway running through the center in both stories from east to west, con necting with the wide iron veranda on the first story and iron passageway and elabor center of Market Park, also by iron walks to the main market buildings and elevators, will also be for lease on and after February 1st.

This very central handsome brick building, baving a frontage towards Pennsylvania avenue and the park of 330 feet, was designed when crected for a "Hotel Cafe," where rooms could be rented with a Cafe on each floor for serving meals as desired, and can be now very easily fitted up into 100 rooms, with two cafes in the center and with kitchen and store rooms in the center of third story, where steam heating pipes for cooking are located, and long lines of warming pipes running through overhead, the entire length of the main, east and west hallways. Outside fron stairways connect the east and west ends with 7th and 9th streets and Louisiana and Pennsylvania avenues. At or about the time this new building was com pleted some exterprising gentlemen were negotiat ing for this very desirable location and new buildng to be used as a Grand Bazaar and an adjunc to the great Central Market for the keeping and sale of every class and variety of goods or articles so that any person entering the market ground from Pennsylvania avenue, 7th, 9th or B streets would find in this Arcade Building, divided into 100 sections, a regular John Wanamaker store and bazear, for which the building is now admirably adapted. This use, however, was abandoned tem porarily for the occupancy of the District militia but could now be carried out by the use of the Arcade Building for a sectional variety store, and twenty sections or rooms could be easily fitted up on the first floor from the avenue, south side, next to the market proper, for flowers, with glass fronts, in which cold air could be introduced from the cold storage pipes below and warm air from the steam pines above, each to be turned on al ternately when required, and thus flowers and plants could be kept in this floral section of the pazaar in as fresh and safe condition until sold and delivered as if they had remained in the hot hous where they were grown.
